Scripts:

W: I've heard stories about restaurant staff getting angry at tourists. Some people might not realise the tips of tipping in many places around the world.

M: In Japan some people get angry if you offer them a tip. Tipping is not a part of their culture at all. They feel that providing quality service is their duty.

W: Every culture looks at this issue very differently.

M: That's right. Tipping is left up to the customer in Britain.

W: It's really important to know where and who to tip in different countries.

M: Yeah...back in China tipping goes the other way around! Restaurant owners will often give free drinks or food to their regular customers as a reward.

W: So, what happens in Canada and the US if the service is really awful?

M: Um... I know some people might reduce the amount to show they are unhappy. But you pretty much always have to leave a tip. In Canada, 10% or 15% tipping is fine.

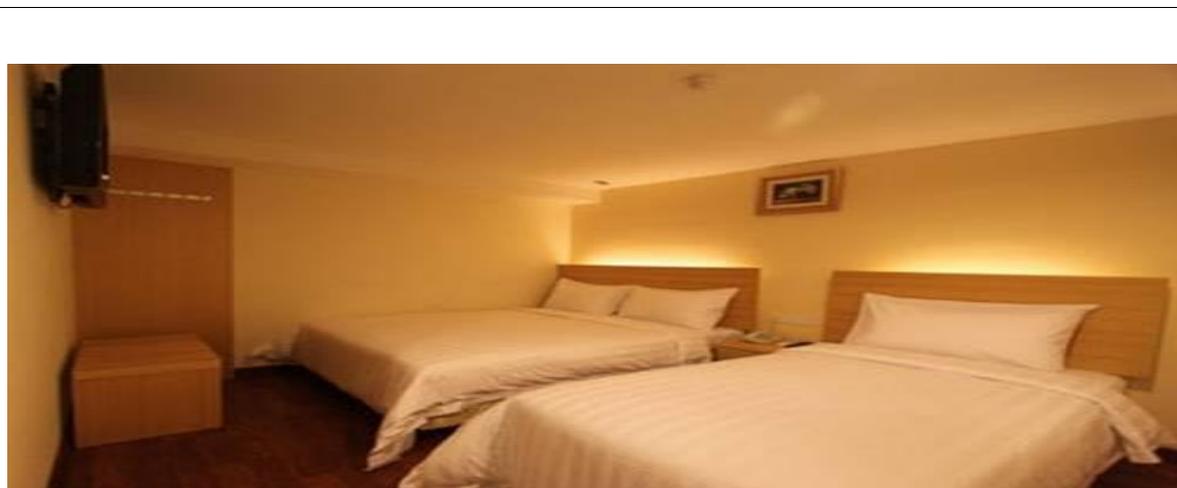

W: But in America they expect 20%. What about Europe? Do they accept tipping?

M: Generally, tipping is popular in Europe. In France, restaurants will add a 15% service charge on your bill. And it is customary to leave a euro or two in addition.

In the South Pacific coastal area of Costa Rica, there is a tree house community — Finca Bellavista, and people there live in the tree houses. People build their beautiful houses on the top of the trees in the rainforest and they can get into the tree houses by stairs or ladders from the ground.

Travellers can rent rooms for a short or long term here. A small town is a few miles away. Some of the neighbours include monkeys, lizards, and lots of birds. Two rivers run along the community. It is a good place if you need a short-term leave from the noisy and busy city life. However, that's not to say that there are no modern things in Finca Bellavista. You can take a bath or even surf the Internet here. And those tree houses are just like our modern houses, which have bedrooms, bathrooms, kitchens and dining halls.

The Finca Bellavista is the world's first tree house community. It is a perfect choice for the travellers if they want to have something truly different and special.

For more information about this amazing tree house community, please visit Finca Bellavista's website.

B

Paperless life helps in many ways. When documents have been printed out, scanning them into the computer system can save money. A document is averagely copied 11 to 19 times throughout its lifetime. It increases the cost of each printed page. On the contrary, if you can electronically store, access, share and track files, you will greatly reduce the time spent on filing, searching for, copying, and/or mailing physical documents.

Imagine that a company produces just 50 important documents each day for filing. If it takes five minutes to file each document, you are paying for 250 minutes of filing each day, or roughly four hours. If you are paying your staff $ 15 an hour, you are looking at $ 60 a day, or $ 15,000 each year in filing costs alone. Additionally, being able to access and share these documents electronically improves productivity and efficiency.

If we go paperless, office space used for paper storage will be freed up, and more money will be saved. A regular four-drawer file cabinet takes about 15 square feet of space. If you are paying $ 40 per square foot for your company space, one cabinet is costing you $ 600 a month.

41. We can save money when we _____.
- A. spend time filing and mailing physical documents
  - B. make copies of each document 11 to 19 times
  - C. scan the printed documents into the computer system
42. According to the text, filing staff in a company is normally paid _____ an hour.
- A. $ 25

- B. $ 50
C. $ 15
43. Being able to access and share electronic documents improves _____.
A. quality of the documents
B. productivity and efficiency
C. payment of the filing staff
44. Which of the following is NOT the advantage of going paperless in a company?
A. Saving space.
B. Reducing cost.
C. Employing more people.
45. This article is mainly about _____ .
A. paperless life in a company
B. advantages of company documents
C. company staff
